

Blackboard Partners with PE Systems to Cut Credit Card Processing Costs for Colleges, Universities

November 15, 2010: 09:00 AM ET

WASHINGTON and SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 15, 2010 /PRNewswire/ --Blackboard Inc. (Nasdaq: BBBB), a leading provider of campus card commerce, security and financial services, today announced a new partnership with PE Systems, LLC to cut credit and debit card processing costs for colleges and universities.

Hundreds of higher education institutions already use the leading Blackboard Transact™ platform to support millions of dollars in campus financial transactions every day. By partnering with PE Systems, the companies can leverage PE Systems' analytic process to help higher education institutions lower processing expenses for credit card payments.

"PE Systems does all the work for us," said Elizabeth Brock, Assistant Vice President and Controller at George Mason University. "They're the ones unraveling the complexities of our merchant statements. My existing credit card processing relationships are as solid as ever. The only difference is we've put thousands of dollars back into George Mason University's bottom line."

The partnership leverages the Blackboard Payment Gateway™, a powerful IP-based processing system which provides flexible, scalable and secure payment processing and fraud management services to campuses nationwide

"The performance of our Blackboard Payment Gateway has provided an environment for dining services that is seamless and reliable for the customers and for the reconciliation and reporting process," said Randy Willis, SkyCard Office Manager at Fort Lewis College.

To date, PE Systems has analyzed over $270 billion in payment card transactions at over 20,000 client locations, identifying savings opportunities more than 96 percent of the time. Higher education systems working with PE Systems have realized savings ranging from $237,900 during one three-year period to $1.7 million over a six year period. In each case, the institutions were able to recognize savings without switching their current payment processing providers or established banking relationships and used the savings to fund additional, much needed student services and educational programs.

"PE Systems has vast expertise in the payments processing industry and brings tremendous value to our clients in higher education who are looking to identify cost savings with their payment card processing operations," said Mark Gunter, Vice President at Blackboard Transact. "We are pleased to team up with PE Systems to bring continued value to the Blackboard Transact community."

"Because these institutions are continually challenged with doing more with less, we are particularly pleased to have been able to help reduce and manage one of their largest line item expenses to the benefit of their students," said Bob Skattum, Chief Operating Officer of PE Systems. "We excited to partner with Blackboard to deliver similar savings and service to our mutual clients."
